Paper Session

“Building Common Ground in Shifting Landscapes of Indigenous Rights in EA”

At the International Association of Impact Assessment (IAIA) Conference, Durban, South Africa, 16-19 May 2018

Lead Chair: Jordan Tam (The Firelight Group)

Co-Chairs: Rachel Olson (The Firelight Group), Gillian Gregory (The Firelight Group)

Indigenous rights are increasingly being recognized, but this shift in rights and power creates both opportunities and challenges for Indigenous groups, proponents, and governments who may wish to find common ground in development and EA. What lessons have been learned that can help move Indigenous rights from promise to reality?

The session will be organized as follows:

- Individual presentations of approximately 15 minutes, each followed by a brief question period.

If you have experience and information to share on this topic, please submit an abstract using the online IAIA form with Session Proposal ID# 69, at:

<http://conferences.iaia.org/2018/abstract/index.php>

The deadline for abstract submission is 20 November 2017 (submissions close at 11:59pm Central Standard Time).

If you have questions, please contact us well in advance of the deadline.
